ESRC Research Development Initiative:

Advancing Visual Methods in Business and Management

An online training resource in visual methods for business and management researchers will be developed by the Investigators in collaboration with members of inVisio: the International Network for Visual Studies in Organizations. It will include multi-media case studies of current practice and a 'toolkit' of materials for teachers of business research methods and culminate in a two-day conference in 2012.

The Project commences in September 2010, however members of inVisio are being encouraged to offer suggestions as to the content of the online training resource ready for development during the Project. We are also calling for resources (case studies, teaching aids, articles etc) as content to include in the online modules via the inVisio website. To join and contribute to the Project, please visit www.in-visio.org
